

“Where I’m From in GALILEO” Lesson Plan

Recommended Resources

Digital Library of Georgia

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=dlg1>

The DLG includes a robust collection of databases focusing on the history and culture of Georgia. Browse by county, time period, topic, or media type to find images, maps, diaries, articles, and even videos. Best collections for the “Where I’m From in GALILEO” activity include the following:

•Vanishing Georgia

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=vang>

The Vanishing Georgia Collection includes historically significant photographs of people, places, and structures from Georgia's past.

•GeorgialInfo

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=gnfo>

GeorgialInfo is an extensive web resource that includes maps, images, statistics, history and government information, and a great deal more on Georgia.

•Georgia Aerial Photographs

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=gaph>

Aerial photographs of Georgia counties from the 1930s to the 1980s.

New Georgia Encyclopedia

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=ngen>

The NGE includes authoritative information on people, places, events, history, and other topics about the state of Georgia. The NGE is a great place for students to kick off their “Where I’m From in GALILEO” research on their town or county

Annals of American History

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?link=zeba>

From Britannica, this resource includes full-text primary source documents, including historical accounts, speeches, memoirs, poems, editorials, landmark court decisions, and cultural criticism. In addition to place searches, try topics, such as “cotton,” “Cherokee,” or “Jimmy Carter.”

Encyclopædia Britannica

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?view=high-school&path=databases&find=britannica>

Choose an Encyclopædia Britannica resource appropriate for the student’s grade. Britannica databases include articles and multi-media on American history topics, including many topics relevant to “Where I’m From in GALILEO” research.

GALILEO Image Search

<http://www.galileo.usg.edu/express?view=high-school&path=search/images/>

Search across multiple resources simultaneously.